

George R. Sexton

George was a Radar Operator at H-1 1958-59

Married to his wife Imogene for 46 years, George died at home in his sleep, on their 46th wedding anniversary. They knew each other for four years prior to getting married.

He was happy in Elizabeth, Colorado, and always said how glad he was that they moved back there. He and his wife had 5 acres of pasture land, house and barn. He didn't have horses but allowed their neighbor to use the pasture for their horses. To make things easier for them, George put a gate in the fence so there was a way for the horses to go from one pasture to the other.
